Care instructions

- Aloe vera does best in bright indirect light.
- It should never be subjected to direct sunlight, as that would scorch the leaves.
- Keep the soil moist during the growing period. Allow the plant to dry out slightly between watering.
- A well-drained and slightly moist soil is best to grow Aloe vera plants.
- Fertilize the plant in spring or in summer with an organic fertilizer.
- Repot the plant once every two years.
