Description for Kalanchoe Millotii

Plant height: 0.5 - 0.8 inches

Plant spread: 2 - 4 inches

Kalanchoe millotii is a succulent plant that is native to the arid parts of Madagascar. It forms a shrub up to a foot high. The leaf is a hazy green and scalloped. Branched, hairy shrub; leaves covered with hairs; pink or yellow flowers. The young Kalanchoe millotii resemble a Cotyledon ladismithiensis.

Common name(s): Velvet leaf kalanchoe

Flower colours: Pink or yellow flowers

Bloom time: Summer

Max reachable height: 3.00 to 5.00 feet

Difficulty to grow: Easy to grow

Planting and care

Kalanches need lots of light, preferably a south-facing window in winter and bright indirect light (or east/west window) in summer. If your Kalanchoe plant is looking leggy and thin, it probably is not getting enough light.

Sunlight: Full Sun

Soil: Well-drained porous soil

Water: Medium

Temperature: 65 degrees F and 85 degrees F

Fertilizer: Apply any organic fertilizer

Caring for Kalanchoe Millotii

After flowering, shift the plant to a slightly larger pot. Kalanchoes are succulents that grow best in a well-drained and well-aerated potting soil, such as 60% peat moss and 40% perlite. Cut back tall growth and old flower stems. Keep well watered in a sunny, warm window.

Typical uses of Kalanchoe Millotii

Special features: Interesting tropical

Culinary use: NA

Ornamental use: The plant is used for an ornamental purpose.
